Our 2024 in review

Reaching new heights

2024 was a remarkable year for Tucker Ellis, marked by exciting expansion, high-stakes client victories, and industry recognition. We opened new offices in Atlanta, Georgia, and Morristown, New Jersey, growing our national Labor & Employment and Health & Life Sciences practices with top-tier lateral additions. Our attorneys secured major trial wins, led billions of dollars' worth of transactions, and delivered standout results for clients across our Business, Intellectual Property, and Trial Departments.

The legal community continued to take notice of our achievements, with our attorneys and practice groups garnering recognition from Chambers USA, The Legal 500, Best Lawyers, Best Law Firms, IFLR1000, IAM Patent 1000, WTR 1000, and many more.

Now, we're entering 2025 in the best position our firm has been in since we founded Tucker Ellis nearly 22 years ago. We've grown to 432 attorneys and business professionals, serving more clients across more practice areas and geographies than ever before. Through this growth, we've stayed true to who we are—the kind of people others want to work with—and for that, we are especially grateful. Thank you to everyone who helped bring us to this exciting moment.

Enhancing our team

In 2024, we welcomed a deep bench of new talent, with 42 attorneys from across the country coming aboard. We opened Hallways in two new markets, adding a robust Labor & Employment team in Atlanta and an outstanding Health & Life Sciences team in Morristown—a hub of the national life sciences industry—to bolster our nationwide capabilities.

In other Hallways, we also continued to grow, expanding our national intellectual property and products liability practices with the addition of skilled attorneys in both Cleveland and Los Angeles, adding new talent to our white collar and estates practices in Cleveland, and developing our business litigation practice in Orange County.

Meanwhile, we maintained our commitment to developing talent from within by electing four attorneys to partnership and promoting two associates to counsel. Their leadership, combined with our strategic expansion across practice areas and markets, positions us for continued success in the years ahead.

Winning for our clients

Our Business Department thrived in 2024, earning industry honors from Chambers USA, IFLR1000, Midwest Real Estate News, and others. Our Real Estate and Finance groups closed nearly 140 deals valued at over $5.4 billion across 25 states and Canada, while our M&A attorneys expertly managed numerous global, high-value deals.

Our Intellectual Property team achieved record-breaking results, facilitating the issue of more than 1,100 patents and registering nearly 730 trademarks—more than double our 2023 totals—while managing a full litigation docket. Recognized in Chambers USA, IAM Patent 1000, WTR 1000, and other organizations, our IP attorneys continue to drive innovation and success.

Our Trial Department also had an outstanding year, securing significant client wins both as plaintiff’s counsel and as defense counsel in 10 cases in five states—one of which Courtroom View Network recognized as the #1 Most Impressive Defense Verdict of 2024—plus numerous successful appeals. Notably, one of our trial teams secured summary judgment wins in two first-of-their-kind cases under the Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act, while our appellate group scored a Fifth Circuit victory in a landmark pharmaceutical case.

Committed to inclusion and growth

Equity, diversity, and inclusion (EDI) remained a driving force at Tucker Ellis in 2024. Chad Eggspuehler and Charissa Walker took the helm as co-chairs of our EDI Committee, continuing outgoing chair Brian Brookey’s outstanding leadership and commitment to fostering inclusivity across our firm. We launched the Jewish Inclusion Resource Group (IRG), expanded leadership across existing IRGs, and deepened firmwide engagement through meaningful conversations, events, and educational initiatives.

Our dedication to EDI was recognized on a national level: we earned Mansfield Certification Plus for the fifth consecutive year as well as the Top Performer recognition from the Leadership Council on Legal Diversity (LCLD). We also received distinctions from Bloomberg Law and the Diversity & Flexibility Alliance, reinforcing our commitment to building a more inclusive legal profession.

We continued to uphold our firm’s values through pro bono service and community engagement. We maintained our commitment to our Pipeline Program initiatives, providing learning opportunities to support students from underrepresented backgrounds in exploring legal careers, while keeping engaged with our communities through volunteer work and nonprofit leadership.

Meanwhile, internally, professional development remained a top priority, with TE attorneys from around the country convening in Cleveland for our Litigation Institute, Business Law Institute, and Intellectual Property Summit programs.

Looking forward

At Tucker Ellis, we believe that success is about more than just results—it’s about the culture we build and the impact we make. In 2024, we lived our values, invested in our people, and strengthened our commitment to a more inclusive legal profession. In 2025, we aim to build on that momentum.

As we continue to grow and evolve, we remain committed to delivering outstanding results and fostering a culture that values excellence, collaboration, and mentorship.

Thank you to our attorneys, staff, and clients for making 2024 such a success. We look forward to another great year ahead.

Strengthening Our Bench

Welcome to our new attorneys

2024 was a landmark year for growth at Tucker Ellis. We opened new offices in Atlanta and Morristown, strengthening our national Labor & Employment and Health & Life Sciences practices. Across our existing Hallways, we expanded our Intellectual Property, Products Liability, White Collar, Estates, and Business Litigation practices, bringing in 42 attorneys nationwide to deepen our bench and enhance client service.

With strategic expansion, key promotions, and a growing national presence, we are better positioned than ever to serve our clients at the highest level. Let's give a warm welcome to all the attorneys who joined us in 2024!

Elevating Legal Excellence

Our 2024 in-house training programs

In 2024, we continued our tradition of providing enriching, high-impact training programs for our attorneys. Through a series of in-house initiatives, lawyers across practice areas honed their skills, deepened their expertise, and engaged in meaningful mentorship opportunities. From corporate law and intellectual property to litigation strategy and in-house counsel insights, these programs reinforced the firm's commitment to professional growth and client service excellence.

Chris Hewitt and Jayne Juvan present at our 2024 Business Law Institute.

In March, we hosted our Business Law Institute, a two-day intensive program designed to enhance corporate attorneys' technical knowledge and practical skills. With panel discussions, mentorship opportunities, and hands-on training — including mock negotiations—attorneys across all levels sharpened their expertise in key business law topics. “Fostering bonds across practice areas and supporting the next generation of attorneys in their professional development is what Tucker Ellis's in-house mentorship and training programs are all about,” said program leader Jayne Juvan.

Howard Kroll and David Steele present at our 2024 IP Summit.

Held in July, the firm's annual IP Summit brought together IP attorneys nationwide for knowledge-sharing, skill development, and discussions on recent cases. Attendees deepened their expertise in IP prosecution and litigation, ensuring innovative solutions for clients.

Across two sessions in September and October, 35 associates and 44 faculty members participated in our Litigation Institute, focusing on courtroom advocacy, strategy, and client representation. Participants engaged in advanced training, mentorship, and collaboration, with the aim of ensuring that our next-generation trial teams are fully prepared to meet the complex needs of our clients.

In October, we also hosted our 11th annual In-House Counsel Summit, bringing together legal leaders for a series of dynamic in-person and virtual CLE sessions. The program featured engaging discussions by TE attorneys and their colleagues on some of today's most pressing legal challenges, including ethical dilemmas for in-house counsel, key takeaways from the U.S. Supreme Court's latest term, and emerging trends in health care law.

Members of our Appellate & Legal Issues Group presented “Supreme Court Term in Review” at the in-person session of our 11th annual In-House Counsel Summit.

This year, we welcomed Jenn Mesko as co-chair of our Junior Attorney Corps (JAC) program alongside Chaz Weber. Our JAC program provides a dynamic 16-month experience that fosters professional growth through mentorship, hands-on training, and exposure to various practice areas. Under Jenn and Chaz's leadership, JAC will continue to support and develop the next generation of legal talent at our firm.

“I am excited to be stepping into the role of co-leading our Junior Attorney Corps, which provides me an opportunity to help shape the future of the firm, ignite our young lawyers' passion for the practice of law, and instill the skills and values that will empower them to thrive in their careers.”

*—Jennifer Mesko, Tucker Ellis
JAC Co-Chair*

Chaz and Jenn led our JAC Deep Dive sessions in October.

Excellence in the Courtroom

2024 trial and appellate spotlights

In 2024, Tucker Ellis participated in 10 trials and argued 19 appeals in courts throughout the United States. With significant client wins both as plaintiff's counsel and as defense counsel—plus numerous successful appeals—our outcomes reflect the skill, strategy, and dedication that define our trial practice.

Major defense verdicts

In a high-stakes five-week trial, Tucker Ellis helped secure a unanimous defense verdict for Mead Johnson in Whitfield v. St. Louis Children's Hospital et al., a case involving $6.27 billion in claimed damages related to premature infant formula. The trial was named Courtroom View Network's (CVN) #1 Most Impressive Defense Verdict of 2024 and one of Law360's Top Product Liability Cases of 2024.

In another significant win, the firm defended Davey Tree Surgery Company in a six-week California trial, obtaining a defense verdict on a $60 million traumatic brain injury claim brought by a motorcyclist. Tucker Ellis also prevailed in a three-week California battery trial, where the plaintiff sought $15 million in damages after allegedly suffering severe injuries from a thrown dart. Additionally, the firm secured a defense verdict in a two-week federal jury trial in California, overcoming counterclaims seeking damages and ownership of an invention valued at $20 million.

Appellate and landmark wins

In Hickey v. Hospira, Inc., Tucker Ellis secured a key appellate victory before the Fifth Circuit, which vacated a summary judgment denial and clarified drug labeling regulations under the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act's 505(b)(2) approval pathway. This precedent-setting decision, acclaimed in numerous legal publications, including Law360 and the Drug & Device Law blog, carries significant implications for thousands of pending cases.

Complex and first-impression cases

Tucker Ellis obtained summary judgment in two first-impression cases alleging violations of the Trafficking Victims Protection Reauthorization Act (TVPRA) while serving as national coordinating counsel for a major hotel chain. The firm also secured a midtrial settlement in a related multiweek trial and resolved another case on the eve of trial, both TVPRA cases as well.

In another complex matter, Tucker Ellis bench-tried a multimillion-dollar federal excise tax case against the U.S. government in Ohio federal court on behalf of an aircraft management company, challenging the sufficiency of IRS guidance and fairness applications.

Making a Difference Through Pro Bono Service

2024 pro bono highlights

In 2024, attorneys across our 10 Hallways provided crucial pro bono assistance in a wide range of legal matters. Led by Pro Bono Partner-in-Charge Justin Eddy, our attorneys collaborated with legal aid organizations, bar associations, and civil rights groups to ensure access to justice for those in need. Here are some highlights of our 2024 pro bono work.

Types of pro bono legal services we provide:

-  1983 Actions
-  Adoption
-  Birth Certificate Corrections
-  Death Penalty Appeals
-  General Advice
-  Housing: Landlord/Tenant
-  Immigration

Advocating for inmates' rights

Diana Gerstel and Cheska Tolentino, appointed pro bono counsel by the District of New Jersey, represent a detainee in a 1983 lawsuit against Hudson County Correctional Facility for failing to mitigate COVID-19 risks. Tom Fawkes provided critical bankruptcy support.

In Ohio, Jennifer Mesko, Nathan Nasrallah, and Izaak Horstemeier-Zrnich, with assistance from Zach Kaplan and Jessica Toncler, secured a favorable settlement in a 1983 lawsuit for an inmate who alleged that he was denied medical care during suicide attempts, violating his Eighth Amendment rights.

Securing justice for a tenant

Danielle Easton and Spencer Krebs, through the Cleveland Metropolitan Bar Association, uncovered due process violations in a landlord-tenant case, overturning a $15,000 judgment. They continue to defend our clients' rights in municipal court.

Fighting for asylum

Law clerk Benjamin Crawford, under attorney supervision, argued for asylum for a Honduran migrant facing persecution. While the matter is ongoing, the team crafted a compelling brief to prevent deportation.

Protecting veterans' rights

Scott Wilkov, with law clerk Bobby Ohly, is representing a disabled U.S. Navy veteran in a claim for benefits after an initial VA denial, using his accreditation to navigate the complex appeals process.

Recognized for Pro Bono Service

In 2024, 24 Tucker Ellis attorneys were inducted into The Legal Aid Society of Cleveland's Pro Bono Honor Societies. Legal Aid also featured Tucker Ellis Day in its newsletter Poetic Justice, highlighting our firm-wide commitment to pro bono work.

"Throughout the years, Tucker Ellis has participated in pro bono work in a variety of ways," said Lauren Gilbride, Managing Attorney for Legal Aid's Intake Group and Volunteer Lawyers Program. "It's a firm-wide commitment that includes everyone from partners to newer associates to paralegals to their summer law clerks. We're always so appreciative of working with them on Tucker Ellis Day."

The Legal Aid Society of Cleveland's Time Well Spent Honor Society honors private attorneys as they reach milestones of cumulative hourly work as pro bono colleagues, while its Community Commitment Honor Society honors private attorneys as they reach milestones of Brief Advice Clinics attended.

Advancing Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion

Our year in EDI

At Tucker Ellis, equity, diversity, and inclusion (EDI) remain central to who we are. In 2024, we strengthened our commitment to fostering an inclusive workplace through strong leadership, expanded initiatives, and partnerships with national organizations dedicated to advancing inclusion in the legal profession.

New leadership and expanding initiatives

In 2024, Chad Eggspuehler and Charissa Walker became co-chairs of our EDI Committee, bringing extensive leadership experience in diversity initiatives within the legal profession and their communities. As co-chairs, Chad and Charissa oversee EDI activities firm-wide and provide critical support to our Inclusion Resource Groups. “We believe that EDI at its core is a chance to bring together people of all backgrounds, promote understanding, and encourage conversations and actions that reflect just outcomes, equality of opportunity, and inclusivity,” they wrote in a joint statement.

National recognition for our commitment

Tucker Ellis was once again recognized as a leader in EDI in the legal industry, earning Mansfield Certification Plus for the fifth consecutive year—a distinction awarded to firms that meet or exceed 30% diverse representation in leadership roles. We were also honored to be recognized in Bloomberg Law’s Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Framework and to receive the Diversity & Flexibility Alliance’s “Tipping the Scales” award for having 50% or more women in our 2024 partnership class.

Investing in the next generation of leaders

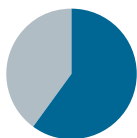

In 2024, we strengthened our partnership with the Leadership Council on Legal Diversity (LCLD). We selected Steven Lauridsen for the LCLD Fellows Program for mid-career attorneys and DT Amajoyi and V. Sathienmars for the LCLD Pathfinder Program for early-career attorneys—programs that provide career development, leadership training, and mentorship opportunities to top-performing attorneys. In recognition of our active engagement in LCLD’s initiatives and programs throughout the year, Tucker Ellis was named a 2024 LCLD Top Performer.

Fostering an Inclusive Legal Pipeline

Opening doors for the next generation of legal talent

In 2024, our award-winning Pipeline Program continued to inspire and empower students from historically underrepresented communities to explore careers in law. Through mentorship, hands-on learning, and community engagement, we remained committed to opening doors for future leaders in the legal profession.

Our attorneys educated students on legal rights and career pathways through the 3Rs program, coached the John Hay Early College Mock Trial Team to a second-place competition finish, and welcomed Saint Martin de Porres High School students for hands-on work-study experience. We also provided paid summer internships through the Louis Stokes Scholars Program and strengthened our law school partnerships through sponsorships, scholarships, and mentorship opportunities.

Through active recruitment efforts—including the Norman S. Minor Bar Association Law Student Summit and the LCLD 1L Scholars Program—we continued working to build a more inclusive legal profession. Additionally, our Junior Achievement volunteer efforts helped equip local students with the skills needed for economic and career success.

In September, we sponsored the Norman S. Minor Bar Association's 9th Annual Law Student Summit for Success. Since the summit's inception in 2016, Tucker Ellis has had the honor of hosting every annual program.

IRGs in Action

Empowering voices and creating an inclusive workplace

In 2024, Tucker Ellis and its Inclusion Resource Groups (IRGs) championed cultural awareness, fostered meaningful dialogue, and contributed to national conversations on inclusion. From welcoming new leadership to hosting firm-wide discussions on a variety of timely topics, our IRGs engaged in impactful programming throughout the year. Through events, publications, and community celebrations, we honored diverse identities and strengthened our commitment to an inclusive workplace and profession.
